

27.

Written by News Administrator

Thursday, 27 June 2013 14:25 - Last Updated Thursday, 27 June 2013 14:26

---

Because zazen is wholehearted action in the present moment, it breaks down the false distinction between physical and mental. For example, we will often come to zazen tired, or anxious, or distracted. We put our body into balance, and our breathing comes into balance. We breathe like a baby; from the belly, intercostally. And what we thought of as our mental process changes too.

Our heart sits on top of our breath.